[AMA] I am AlpraKing, former Darknet Xanax Kingpin & responsible for the xanax epidemic in America.

Unique Experience

I am AlpraKing. I am a Canadian. Between June 2014 and May 2016, using several different aliases, I sold a total of over 15 million xanax bars, mainly exported to the USA, racking in over 7m canadian dollars in personal profits. I have stopped selling in May 2016, almost a year ago, after receiving privileged intel that the Canadian LE was working with the DEA on stopping the "plague" my xanax was causing to the USA. I have passed the torch to others, trained many apprentices who have filled my seat and am now retired. In my retirement, I operate my own subreddit r/thexanaxcartel, designed to help the Xanax reselling community review vendors and discuss the game in order to maximize information sharing and minimize scamming attempts. I was never caught. :)

I don't, I have a small core network of people who have a lot of human resources at their disposal. I trust their judgement on who to hire. I do not ever meet them.

How did you start?

↑ 36 ↓ Share Report Save

AlpraKing OP · 5 yr. ago

I pressed steroids and sold them locally, but I soon realised Xanax was much easier to manufacture, appealed to a much broader audience via the darknet, and was not much worse in term of risk, being only a schedule 4 drug in Canada.

My business really kicked off with I discovered the dark net.

How long did it take to go from filling caps to getting a press?

27

A few months, an automatic press is like 2,000 USD investment, its fairly easy to get one. As soon as the volume was high enough I bought a press.

Back in 2014 when we were working a single punch tablet press. I had left my two buddies to work on the machine while i was gathering groceries. When I came back home several hours later, they were sleeping on the couch with the machine still pressing pills, obviously they passed out from the machine's emanations. I was unable to wake one of them to get back to work. It was funny as hell!

Very easy actually. Many businesses sell them in canada. They are perfectly legal and un-monitored. Law enforcement tends to monitor them anyway by placing GPS bugs on them when they arrive in the country from china, but they are easily jammed.

Xanax isn't the worst drug out there. I don't think it's any worse than alcohol. You could make the same complaint towards people selling alcohol, yet that apparently is all fine and dandy.

21 Share ...

Continue this thread →

yngradthegiant · 5 yr. ago

It's possible to limit the amount of damage the drug does on that person by selling an uncut product, and not selling some shit mixed with who knows what and probably isn't the drug you are buying. Not really possible to limit the damage killing someone has on that now dead person. If someone's going to harm themselves, and you can't stop it, then at least try to minimize the harm. Cut drugs and falsely sold drugs are a huge problem. It's almost impossible to safely buy drugs off the street. Its almost never the drug you are actually wanting to buy, and it's probably cut to shit. People die of this shit every damn day.

I know you were operating an illegal business, so liability for improperly mixed product wouldn't be as much of a detriment. Regardless, did you attempt to learn and implement mixing methodologies used by pharmaceutical companies?
