

Concerns About Your Access to Medicine During the Covid-19 Pandemic?

We Have Answers.

Worried about medicine inventory?

Generally, manufacturers strive to maintain a strong inventory of medicine. For example, in the HIV space, all of the major manufacturers have confirmed that they have a solid twelve months of inventory for all patients. Source: ADAP Advocacy Association

Can my pharmacist help to secure my medicine supply?

Yes, get to know them.

- Discuss questions or concerns you have about your medicines.
- Get refills with a few days to spare in case there is an issue.
- Talk to your doctor and pharmacist to see if a 90-day prescription is right for you.

What if I can't afford my medication?

You can reduce your costs by using a prescription assistance program to get the medication you need.

We recommend:

Patient Advocate Foundation (<https://www.patientadvocate.org>)

Patient Access Network Foundation (<https://www.panfoundation.org>)

NeedyMeds (<https://www.needy meds.org>)

Rx Outreach (<https://rxoutreach.org>)

Who else can help me?

Many chronic conditions have non-profit advocacy groups that can point you towards medication assistance programs. For example, ADAP Advocacy Association has a directory for State AIDS Drug Assistance Programs. (<http://adap.directory>). Ask your doctor for a suggestion or look online.

If you want to buy online, only purchase from verified pharmacy websites that end in .pharmacy.
